Auto-entrepreneur on digital platforms

Withholding of your social contributions : your procedures are simplified, your access to social security rights and benefits is secured

July 2026

You are an auto-entrepreneur and use a digital platform to carry out your activity. The new system for withholding of your social contributions by digital platforms simplifies your procedures and secures your access to social security rights and benefits.

Overview of the withholding system

Simplifying your procedures

You no longer need to declare your turnover to Urssaf for the activities carried out through the digital platform(s) you work with, nor pay the corresponding social contributions : the platform takes care of these procedures with Urssaf on your behalf.

Securing your social security rights

Withholding ensures access to your social security rights, such as daily allowance for sick leave or your pension rights.

Contributing to fair competition

The system helps prevent the under-reporting of income earned through platforms and contributes to fair competition among professionals.

Implementation in two phases

The system will be implemented in the last quarter of 2026 by several volunteer platforms, and will then be extended to all platforms from 1 January 2027.

Visit autoentrepreneur.urssaf.fr to view the list of volunteer platforms that will implement withholding from 2026.

How does it work ?

Currently, you declare and pay your social contributions every month or every quarter to Urssaf. With the withholding system, the process is simpler :

- → for each income you generate through a platform, the platform directly withholds the amount of social contributions due before paying you the remaining amount. It then transfers these contributions to Urssaf on your behalf. You no longer need to do this yourself ;
- → in the end, your net income remains the same.

No changes to social contributions

Withholding does not change your social contributions. The rates and scales are those applicable to all auto-entrepreneurs.

Track your declarations online

Log in to your account on autoentrepreneur.urssaf.fr, to access :

- → the details of the turnover reported by platforms ;
- → the amounts of social contributions withheld.

Do you have other income ?

Income earned outside platforms : you must continue to declare this turnover yourself and pay the corresponding social contributions.

Income generated through a platform that has not yet implemented withholding : you must continue to declare yourself to Urssaf the turnover generated through this platform and pay the corresponding social contributions until the system is generalized in 2027.

Withholding in 3 steps

Example of income generated through a platform in January :

Month M-1

In December, Urssaf provides the platform with the withholding rate applicable to you for January.

> This rate takes into account the situation of your auto-entrepreneur account with Urssaf (Acre exemption, etc.).

Month M

In January, In January, the platform automatically calculates and withholds, for each of your incomes, the social contributions due on each item of income, based on the withholding rate provided by Urssaf.

> It then directly deducts these social contributions you owe from the amount paid to you.

→ You continue to carry out your activity through the platform as usual.

Month M+1

In February, the platform directly reports to Urssaf the amount of income you generated in January and transfers the social contributions it withheld.

> You can access the details of the declaration submitted by the platform each month on your online account on autoentrepreneur.urssaf.fr

→ The platform has taken care of your procedures with Urssaf for the income generated through its services.
